TRUTH, JUSTICE AND THE CONSTITUTION.

VOLUME X.] ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 29, 1859. [NUMBER 6.

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL.

DOCTOR JOHNSTON,

THE founder of this Celebrated Institution, offers the most certain, speedy, and only effectual remedy in the world for Gleets, Strictures, Seminal weakness, Pains in the Loins, Constitutional Debility, Impotency, Weakness of the Back and Limbs. Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose or Skin; and all those serious and melancholy Disorders arising from the destructive habits of Youth, which destroy both body and mind. These secret and solitary practices are more fatal to their victims than the song of the Syrens to the mariners Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes of anticipations, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN

especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellects, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstasy the living lyre, may call with all confidence.

Marriage.

Married persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of physical weakness, organic debility, deformities, &c., should immediately consult Dr. Johnston, and be restored to perfect health.

He who places himself under the care of Dr Johnston, may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

Organic Weakness

immediately cured and full vigor restored.

This disease is the penalty most frequently paid by those who have become the victims of improper indulgencies. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue.—Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of Procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged; the physical and mental powers weakened, nervous debility, dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, a wasting of the frame, cough, symptoms of consumption, &c.

OFFICE—No. 7, South Frederick Street, Seven Doors from Baltimore St., East side, up the steps. ☞ Be particular in observing the name and number, or you will mistake the place.

Cure Warranted, or no Charge Made, in from One to Two Days.

NO MERCURY OR NAUSEOUS DRUGS USED.

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended, sometimes, with derangement of mind. were cured immediately.

A Certain Disease.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiseration, till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings, by sending him to 'that bourne from whence no traveler returns.' To such therefore Dr Johnston pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable secrecy, and from his extensive practice in the first Hospitals of Europe and America, he can confidently recommend a safe and speedy cure to the unfortunate victim of this horrid disease.

It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fall victims to this dreadful disease, owing to the unskillfulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that dreadful poison, mercury, ruin the constitution, and either send the unfortunate sufferer to an untimely grave, or else make the residue of his life miserable.

Take Particular Notice!

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgences and solitary habits which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either Business, Study, Society or Marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz:—Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions. General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects upon the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, Confusion of ideas, Depression of Spirits, Forebodings of Evil, Aversion of Society, Self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, etc., are some of the evils produced.

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health. Losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of consumption.

Dr. Johnston's Invigorating Remedy for Organic Weakness.

By this great and important remedy, weakness of the organs are speedily cured, and full vigor restored. Thousands of the most nervous and debilitated, who had lost all hope, have been immediately relieved. All Impediments to marriage, Physical or Mental Disqualification, Nervous Irritability, Tremblings and Weakness, or exhaustion of the most fearful kind, speedily cured by Doctor Johnston.

Young Men, who have injured themselves by a Certain practice, indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school—the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, and the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequences of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons before contemplating should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospects hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

OFFICE No. 7 SOUTH FREDERICK ST. Baltimore, Md.

SURGICAL OPERATIONS PERFORMED

DR. JOHNSTON is the only regular Physician advertising to cure private complaints.—His remedies and treatment are entirely unknown to others. Prepared from a life spent in the great hospitals of Europe and the first in this country, viz: England, France, the Blockley of Philadelphia, &c., and a more extensive practice than any other Physician in the world. His many wonderful cures and most important surgical operations are a sufficient guarantee to the afflicted. Those who wish to be speedily and effectually relieved, should shun the numerous trifling imposters, who only ruin their health, and apply to him.

THE STATES AND UNION,

THE CHEAPEST PAPER IN THE SOUTH.

ONLY ONE DOLLAR PER ANNUM FOR THE WEEKLY EDITION.

During the month of October we will commence the publication of our paper, on NEW, LARGE, AND LEGIBLE TYPE, under the title of

THE STATES AND UNION.

It will be conducted with an exclusive regard to the principles of the State-rights Democracy, will be independent of factions, unbiased by partial interests, and furnished to subscribers at the low price of ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR.

This is but barely remunerative; but we have placed it thus low in order that it may be within the reach of every Democrat and others who are inclined to read it. It will contain all the leading editorials which appear in the daily editions, as well as a large amount of general intelligence, embracing much valuable information relating to the affairs of government, and matters of interest appertaining to Literature, Agriculture, and Commerce. It will also contain all the Government Advertisements and official notices.

The events which will transpire during the next twelve months will make a paper published at the seat of government of more than ordinary interest.

The STATES AND UNION, during this period, will contain a perfect history of the proceedings of the NEXT CONGRESS, which will perhaps be of more interest to the nation than any previous Congress which has assembled at Washington since the formation of the government.

It will embrace the whole political canvass for the NEXT PRESIDENCY, up to the day on which the election takes place; in fact, it may be regarded as THE CAMPAIGN PAPER, and the cheapest paper of the kind ever issued.

We see no reason why its circulation should not be extended to fifty thousand in a few months. The indications are favorable to such a result from the substantial manifestations which we receive day by day in the large number of subscribers. A remittance may be made for a single copy by carefully wrapping up a GOLD DOLLAR and enclosing it in an envelope.

POSTMASTERS AND OTHERS, who will take the trouble of getting us up a club of ten subscribers, at the rate of ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR for each subscriber, will be furnished with a copy of the WEEKLY STATES AND UNION for one year gratis.

Payments in all cases required in advance.

Current money in the different States received in payment for subscriptions.

All letters should be addressed to

JOHN P. HEISS,
Washington, D. C.

The Daily and Semi-Weekly Editions of the STATES AND UNION will be much enlarged, and issued at the following rates:

DAILY.

One copy per year	$6 00
Two copies per year	10 00

SEMI-WEEKLY.

One copy per year	3 00

The Semi-Weekly STATES contains all the reading matter of the Daily, including News, Markets, Congressional Proceedings, &c.

ELIZABETH CITY:

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 29, 1859.

The Speakership.

Monday next will be the day for the assembling of the 36th Congress. The organization of the House, from the state of parties, may be postponed to an indefinite period. Without an arrangement between the Southern Opposition and the Republicans, or the support of the former being given to a Democrat, it will be impossible to elect a Speaker, neither party having a sufficient number of votes for that purpose. The Opposition are in a dilemma how they will act; time alone can determine. Unfortunate, indeed was it for the calculations of opposition politicians, that Old Brown did not wait until after the meeting of Congress before he attempted the invasion of Virginia.—Had this been done, the fusion of the Opposition would have been comparatively easy, and the organization of the House with a Republican speaker been no impossible event. Brown's foray has put an entirely new phase upon the whole matter.—It will be almost impossible to bring the few Know Nothings from the slave States, always excepting H. W. Davis and Harris of Maryland, to aid directly or indirectly in the elevation of a Republican to the Speaker's chair. Such a course would be a damaging blow to their prospects for another term of Congressional service, which they are not willing to encounter. Some might be willing, as in the 34th Congress, to sanction the adoption of the plurality rule, and thus give the choice to the anti-slavery majority of the House; but they know that exposure would be inevitable, and the guilt of the thing would be equal to a direct vote for a Republican. The Southern Opposition must, therefore, preserve their own organization by voting for one of their own men, or help the Democrats to organize the House. The Republicans will not go to them. Mahomet must go to the mountain, or Mahomet and the mountain will continue to stand some distance apart.

The Democratic portion of the members will, we presume, nominate their man and adhere to him. They can never expect aid from the republicans; they may not get it from the "Americans." Whether the few anti-Lecompton men will go over to the Republicans or cast their votes for a Democrat is in doubt. Should they pursue the latter course, the democrats may find enough conservative men among the Southern Opposition to enable them to effect an organization of the House by the election of a Democratic Speaker. Such a result may be defeated, however, by the factious course of the American party, who may not have a sufficient love for the country to enable them to overcome their hatred for the Democracy. We confess that we have but small hope that, in any possible contingency, can the election of a democrat be effected. The Americans may refuse to vote for a Republican, but they can prevent the success of the Democratic candidate, and render the organization of the House impossible. This may be done with the expectation that one of their own number will be taken up.—This will not be done, for ninety-five democrats would never think of going over to the twenty-three Southern Opposition.

If there is a failure to elect, the country will see where the responsibility rests; if the struggle is prolonged and the interests of the country neglected, it will be chargable to the factious course of the Know Nothings, and they will be held justly accountable for it. We shall see.

IMPROVING.—Our neighbor, of the Pioneer, admits "that 2 and 2 make 4." In mathematics he seems to be apt—and we are led to believe that, with the proper training, he will be enabled in the course of a year, that is, after the next Presidential election, to sum up and submit to his readers the annual expenses of the Federal and State Governments. His readers will have to be patient—it takes time to learn!—State.

Glad to hear, neighbor, that you think so well of us; glad you think we are "improving." We would willingly pay you the same compliment, but find upon strict examination that we cannot. You are a hopeless case.

The proposition that "2 and 2 make 4" belongs to the State; we admitted it to be right; and as it has gone thus far in figures, perhaps it will work out the following for us. If SIXTY THOUSAND "Americans" in New York, make THE OPPOSITION, what are TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY THOUSAND Republicans worth?

The State advises our "readers" to "be patient," as it "takes time to learn." Hope they will do so, and we will try and not disappoint them. We shall not advise the readers of the State to the same exercise of patience, but may tell them to expect nothing, and they will not be disappointed.

Editorial Changes.

Samuel B. Paul, Esq., has retired from the editorial charge of the Petersburg Press, and his partner, Mr. John T. Phillips, assumes the entire control of the Press. Mr. Paul was an easy, graceful, and vigorous writer, and an unflinching advocate of Democratic principles. Mr. Phillips salutes his readers in handsome style.

The Salisbury Banner has changed editors, Mr. J. M. Newson retiring, and Mr. Jno. Spelman taking his place. The Standard says that—

"Mr. Spelman is one of the best practical printers in the country, is a ready writer, and will no doubt render the Banner a still more interesting and valuable sheet.—He is a sound Democrat."

HOT AND COLD IN THE SAME BREATH.

Our neighbor of the Pioneer, has a cool way of making things suit his convenience. For instance, these paragraphs which appeared in his last issue:—

Hot	Cold
The Democrats did their best and reduced the Republican majority to a handful, and had the SIXTY-THOUSAND Americans voted with them, Sewardism in New York would have been prostrated.—Pioneer.	Now, neighbor, we admit 2 and 2 make 4,' but we do not admit that you can persuade any sensible man to believe that the Baltimore Patriot thought for a moment about the MISERABLE LTITLE FACTION which you confess, are in an almost hopeless miless minority" &c. Pioneer. A corporals guard. Pioneer.

The State will never succeed in the attempt to make the above appear inconsistent. We repeat the first and the last also. Had the American party in New York been conservative, and voted with the Democrats, the prospects of W. H. Seward would have been blighted forever. They did not do it.—But what has this to do with the subject to which the second extract from the Pioneer refers? The State claimed that this "sixty thousand Americans," this "miserable little faction," this "hopeless minority," is THE OPPOSITION of New York, when the Republicans numbered just two HUNDRED THOUSAND above it. We contended that the Patriot referred to the majority party as the "Opposition party," and used the language quoted, and a little more, to prove it. If the State had finished the paragraph, instead of cutting off the nine words that finished it, our intention would have been clear, and the meaning of the whole plain. The State accuses us of "making things suit our convenience."

That paper has a happy faculty of doing the same thing, it differs as to the mode.—Had the paragraph from our article been complete, it would not have "suited the convenience" of our neighbor. It would then have read as follows:

"Now neighbor, we admit 'that 2 and 2 make 4,' but we do not admit that you can persuade any sensible man to believe that the Baltimore Patriot thought for a moment about the miserable little faction which, you confess are in an 'almost hopeless minority being regarded as THE OPPOSITION party of New York.'"

Sharp Shooting: The Richmond Whig on the Baltimore Patriot.

The Richmond Whig, in the following extract, makes the fur fly from the Baltimore Patriot. The Whig is evidently in earnest, its dander is up, and the way he pitches into the Baltimore plug ugly organ is a caution. The Whig scouts the idea of being considered one of the Patriot's party; it has no idea of sailing under any flag with the Patriot. Brass knuckles or slung shot never inflicted a deadlier blow, than is given by the Richmond paper to the American organ. Hit him again, the castigation is well merited:

For the suggestion thus made, we have been taken to task by the Baltimore Patriot, which, in the sublimity of its Plug-Ugly audacity and silliness charges us with "playing into the hands of the Democracy!" Now, we care nothing in the world about the Baltimore Patriot, or its opinion, good or bad. We are in the habit of acting on our own convictions of propriety and policy, whether right or wrong, and certainly we shall never allow ourselves to be swerved a hair's breadth from any course we may think proper to pursue, by the stupid animadversions and misrepresentations of a stupid "Plug-Ugly organ," par excellence. Besides, we do not belong, and never have belonged to the peculiar party, or faction, or what not, of which the Patriot vaunts the leadership. Our's is an independent Old Line Whig journal, which has not a particle of love for Democracy, or Black Republicanism, or Plug-Uglyism, and which expects never to lend the slightest support or countenance to either of these factions, as such. There might be circumstances, however, under which we would feel it our duty to cooperate temporarily with either, for the sake of some particular object of absorbing public magnitude. But we do not anticipate that such circumstances will arise.—We shall, therefore, stand where we are, and where we have always stood, ready to battle with all of all parties, whose creed is—the rights of the States and the Union of the States. We love the Union, but we love Virginia more. The Patriot, on the contrary, if it can only succeed in perpetuating the ascendancy of its party in the single city of Baltimore, and deriving from such ascendancy, as it necessarily does and will, a large pecuniary advantage, will care very little about the success or defeat of any other party, any where else. We fear it is hopelessly weded to the Baltimore city spoils, and consequently, we distrust its political sincerity, and pay no manner of attention to any of its suggestions on political subjects. Not belonging to its party, therefore, we deny its right, out and out, either to dictate, suggest, or hint what course we should pursue, under any circumstances whatever—and its doing so is the height of presumption and impertinence. We shall, certainly, never intimate to is what course it should pursue—for neither we, nor the public at large, feel any concern about so very small a matter. Its influence, if it has any at all, is limited to its own little Plug-Ugly tea party in the city of Baltimore; and, in view of the mean spirit and poor ability with which it is edited, it ought never to aspire to extend its influence beyond.

Neighbor, don't "tickle" yourself so! "Self praise"—— you know the rest.—State.

We have had amusement enough in tickling the State, without going to the trouble of performing the same operation for ourself.

☞ HON. S. A. DOUGLAS will please accept our thanks for a copy of his last rejoinder to Judge Black.

☞ We desire to know if the State would select between a Democrat and Black Republican for the Presidency? They answer, we would. If we are not too inquisitive, we will ask another question, suggested by the above reply. Will the State tell us the choice which it would make?—Pioneer.

While we have no fears of being reduced to the necessity of choosing between a Democrat and Black Republican in 1860, yet, as our neighbor seems to have some apprehensions in that direction, we will answer his in interrogatory. Should we be called upon to choose between a Democrat and Black Republican, we will vote for the one who comes nearest endorsing our political views. Between two evils we will chose the lesser.—State.

Just as big as a piece of chalk, and a little bigger.

Speeches of Messrs. Webster & Hallett.

We publish to-day the speech of Mr. Sydney Webster, and an extract from a speech of B. F. Hallett, both Massachusetts men. These gentlemen were addressing Massachusett's people, and their speeches contain sentiments that might have been spoken before, and with the approval of, a Southern audience. It is thus that Northern democrats talk.

☞ Answer of the State to the Pioneer's strictures upon the Cameron-Opposition meeting in Pennsylvania.

We know that the readers of the State are now satisfied that Cameron is a "sound national" man and that the Pennsylvania Opposition endorse "sound national principles." The following answer of the State is conclusive:

"Our neighbor is getting to be a regular lunatic."

'Fair Play'

Stirs up the State correspondent, 'Pasquotank,' once more upon the Harney horse question, in the Pioneer of to-day. 'Fair Play' makes to 'Pasquotank' a fair proposition, which, if accepted, may prove quite beneficial to Messrs. HINTON and HARNEY and————

Independent Greys.

It will be seen by the correspondence below that this company is among the volunteers who are willing to share the peril of vindicating the honor of our sister State; and though the Executive of Virginia has no farther occasion for an additional force, yet this gallant company will be found ever ready, should occasion present itself, to suppress all rioters—"foes within"—or fight the enemy of our country upon the "tented field:"

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.,

GOV. WISE: If you deem it necessary to employ more force at Harper's Ferry, at any time, the services of the "Independent Greys" are at your bidding. For the Pioneer.

MR. EDITOR:—In a recent No. of the "State," I find an article, copied, with apparent approval, from a Trenton, New Jersey, Paper, in which, the following occurs: "All that is necessary to secure the complete overthrow of the administration in 1860, is a thorough and honest union of the Opposition. In point of fact it is well known, that there is no material difference, in the political feelings of those who, in the various States, oppose, earnestly, the radical and obnoxious doctrines and practices of the Democratic party, and but little, if any effort, will be needed, to cause a strong and lasting cohesion."

What does the "State" mean? The leading politicians and Journals of the Republican party, have, and are now urging, the defeat of the Democratic Party, chiefly, if not entirely, on the ground of its being the "pro-slavery party." Does the "State" mean to say that there is "no material difference in the political feelings" of those who compose the "Opposition" North and South? In view of the recent affair at Harper's Ferry there is pertinence in the enquiry, what does it mean?

"SOUTH."

For the Pioneer.

Eloquence as is Eloquence.

"The leading editorial in the last Pioneer was truly sublime! It was deliciously, painfully eloquent! The writer of that article can be no ordinary man. He has judgment and tact! He confines himself to no given subject; but, without a theme, writes at large, and, imitating the goose that had to "sett" on ten dozen eggs at once, literally "spreads himself!" His article is

"—— brilliant with explosive coruscations
Of heterogeneous thoughts, at random caught,
And scatter'd like a shower of shooting stars!"

We like the boldness, the grandeur, and the extent of his imagination's flight. Like the winged "buzzard bird" he "soars aloft!"

"No pent up Utica contracts his powers,
But the whole boundless Universe is hisen!"

Our readers shall not be denied the privilege of seeing and judging for themselves of this wonderful eloquence. But they must pardon us for giving it to them in broken doses as they could not survive the whole at once."

The above extract I clip from the State of the 19th inst. It is a portion of a "critique"—if such a title may be given to a "most villainous" "compound" of popinjay show and disgraceful slang—that is in the highest sense of the word, malicious, personal and insulting. That it is malicious, is evident not only as appearing upon its first perusal, but such may also be fairly inferred by the unceasing tirade of petty warfare that has always characterized that paper in its course towards all who have dared to raise the Democratic banner or support Democratic principles. It breathes forth "would be satire"—the very impersonation of imbecile rage, steeped in the essence of vindictive hatred. It is personal: for the writer knew full well, that the Editor of the Pioneer was absent and that the "onus scribandi" had, I may almost say, exofficio, fallen upon me. That its tone of "high vaulting" ridicule is insulting, will be conceded by every gentleman of refined sensibility, who has read its bombastic words of comment.

However, it is just such an article as I should expect to see from the pen of a man, so disappointed in professional expectations and so brow-beaten in superior arrogations of bravery. He, who has so signally failed in his professional avocations and political aspirations must, of course, retrieve his fallen position; and what easier method of accomplishing this object, than by strained sallies of wit against the usually ordinary articles that may be met with in a village paper? What more appropriate place, too, than the scene of his own failure? Where his own reputation as an orator is "below par," must certainly be the place to convince the inhabitants that some men are not so much renowned for purity of diction as were the polished contributors to the Spectator.

"Misery loves company!"

Like the most beautiful simile that ever penetrated his asinine brain—the bird of all others, that he would prefer to have engraved upon the escutcheon of his heraldry—his own "winged buzzard"—that passes over all the wholesome flesh of the field to feed upon the first bit of putrescence that wafted to him, upon the breeze, its savor of rotteness; so does this "censor literarum" remain deaf to the excellences, but keenly alive to the defects of literary effort. Such is nature; there is such thing as the venom of a viper and the projectible qualities of a skunk.

Whatever may be the faults of the article in question—let it abound in good common sense or be superlatively sophomoric, I hereby claim it as my own and acknowledge its paternity. And whatever may have been the cause of any literary defect in it—whether it was want of time or total incompetency—I adduce neither these nor any other excuses as a palliation. As I do not fear the author physically—so neither do I fear him mentally. In no manner do I crave quarter, except perhaps he might on the rostrum, intend to make me the subject of a public rebuke; for in no respect has he evinced himself as a formidable opponent, save in the inimitable specimens of forensic eloquence with which he has favored us.

This is the last which I have to say to him in the way of discussion, it is prudent to leave him to himself; a refined sensibility should compel every gentleman to avoid a discussion in which he is liable to be the recipient of such billingsgate terms as "Cowardice, Lying, Lewdness," just as natural instinct teaches nobler animals to avoid too close a proximity with the afore mentioned loathsome quadruped; the weapons used in either case are radically characteristic.

JOHN B. LYON.

The Southern States Rallying to Virginia.

The insinuation that the Southern States were indifferent to the wrongs and outrages perpetrated upon the sovereignty of Virginia, has already been denied by the resolutions of the Legislatures of Georgia and Tennessee; and below we give the evidence of a willingness on their part to share the peril of vindicating the honor of Virginia by the gallant volunteers of Georgia and North Carolina.

The Secretary of the Commonwealth, in the absence of the Executive, has replied to the subjoined telegraphic dispatches, thanking the officers and men for their kind offers—that Virginia does not need their aid, and is perfectly able to execute her laws. Virginia cannot fail to appreciate these marks of kindness and affection from the citizens soldiers of her sister Southern States:

For the Pioneer.

MR. EDITOR:—I promised last week, that if "Pasquotank' did not answer my question, I would make inquiry of another and let you know the result.

The first part of the promise I have performed, and now, if "Pasquotank" does not come out like a man and say, that the American Party of Pasquotank are still indebted for the rent of the room, the fitting up of same—fitted up at considerable expense expressly for their use—also for the candles with which that room was lighted, also for the ——— I shall be under the disagreeable necessity of telling you, that I have learned such to be the case. I shall, however, wait another week for "Pasquotank" to answer, thinking it probable that "Fair Play" might have escaped his observation, or that he was too much engaged in grieving over the loss likely to be sustained by "Friend Harney" by the death of his horse, to give him immediate attention.

"Pasquotank" seems, from his communication, to be one capable of feeling for another's woes, and I would therefore, suggest to him, that we endeavor to have our respective friends righted. You poke the Democrats, "Pasquotank," until they pay for "Friend Harney's" horse, and "Fair Play" will touch the Americans on the raw until Mr. Hinton is paid for his room and candles, and Mr. ——— for his ——— you know. Come up to the work, good charitable man, and be assured that "Fair Play" will be in.

FAIR PLAY.

B. F. Hallett, Esq., of Boston.

Mr. Hallett examined the two heresies of the Republican party—enmity to foreign labor and hatred to the South. He showed what had been gained to the public wealth and private prosperity, by the infusion of the wealth of labor brought here by emigration, and that American laborers had been advanced and elevated by it. He next demonstrated the folly and wickedness of a party in this Commonwealth where we lived by spindles, inciting the people to hatred against the South, whose form of slave labor supplied the great material of industry, Cotton, without which Lowell would have remained a desert. Annihilate cotton and she would return to the desert. The men and women of Lowell worked up cotton enough every week to make a belt round the earth, and how would they live without cotton? And yet they were listening to and being led by preachers, lecturers, and politicians, who taught them that their whole duty to God and man consisted in hatred to the South! They concealed from them the truth which lies at the bottom of all this, and makes their teachings and acts a mountain of hypocrisy, namely, that Massachusetts builds her mills, ships, houses and cities out of slave cotton; that she freights three fourths of her vessels with slave cotton; that she annually sends out for sale thirty-six millions of fabrics woven by her anti slavery citizens out of slave cotton; and that to do all this she employs, and is as directly responsible for it as if she owned them, about three hundred thousand slaves to raise cotton for her in the Southern States. And with all this cotton and slave sugar, and slave rice, and slave tobacco filling her pockets with wealth and her families with comfort, she stands apart, Pharisee like, to pray and thank God that she is not like those publicans and sinners, the slaveholders of the South!

From this view Mr. Hallett traced the consequences of this inculcation of hatred against the South infused into the laboring men and women of Massachusetts, and showed that, as its natural and inevitable consequence it had led to the attempt of Capt Brown and his followers to stir up the slaves to servile war at Harper's Ferry. Brown had only acted what the preachers, lecturers and politicians of Massachusetts had taught. They had created a 'public opinion' at the North made up of hatred to the South, a 'higher law,' and an 'irrepressible conflict,' and Brown and his followers were simply the armed public opinion of Massachusetts! The question had now come home to the honest Republicans of Massachusetts to reflect whether an invasion of the South and a servile war was what they contemplated in giving power to the Republican Anti-slavery party, and they had got it upon their consciences whether they would longer be accessories to invasion, war, treason, murder and massacre! The act of Brown could not be individualized, it was a type of a whole class at the North inflamed by the teachings of this insane hatred to the South. Brown had only acted what Mr Horace Mann uttered when he said—'Better disunion, better a civil or servile war, than the extension of slavery.' It was these utterances at the North that made such men as Captain Brown, and raised the ten thousand dollars of Northern funds to help him put arms and pikes into the hands of the slaves of Virginia and Maryland. It turns out, happily, that Brown mistook the slave sentiment of the South. Instead of twenty thousand, as he expected, he could not incite a single slave to murder his master.—But Brown did not mistake that which is called 'the anti slavery sentiment of Massachusetts,' and which cries out for blood and slaughter and servile war, while these criers out stand back in security hoping that Browns enough may be raised to arm every slave against his master! That same 'Massachusetts sentiment' was now at work in our State House passing a law to erect a statue to Horace Mann, with the motto—'Disunion, servile war better than slavery!' and put it in front of the Capitol as a sneer upon the statue of Webster, which stands there with the motto—LIBERTY AND UNION, ONE AND INSEPARABLE.'

Mr. Hallett besought men of sobriety and character in the Republican ranks further to reflect upon the consequences of this 'Massachusetts sentiment,' arming fanatics and murderers. If the massacre of white women and children had come to be regarded as Massachusetts philanthropy, because they were slave-holders, then, at last, turn your sympathy to the slaves. If the North incites and then aids a servile insurrection at the South, it will free the slaves only by extermination. Ham and Japheth never had and never would come in conflict but the negro must bite the dust; and if Northern fanatics could arm every slave, the first murder of a white family by an organized slave insurrection, would be the signal of extermination of the blacks.

We have not space to follow the speaker further; but his suggestions, which seemed to present to the audience a graver matter than they had thought of in the scenes at Harper's Ferry, were listened to with deep attention. Mr. H concluded with an earnest appeal to the people of Massachusetts to mind their own great industrial interests, to let slavery and slave agitators alone, and stand up for the Constitution and the Union.

A Sound Northern View of the Plea of Insanity.

The Belleville (Illinois) Democrat contains the following able and conservative article on the negro mania:

AGREED AT LAST.

The Abolition papers of the country, in speaking of Harper's Ferry insurrection, now that it has proven a perfect failure, say that Brown, Cook, and their co-adjutors in this rebellion were insane. That they were mad fools, monomaniacs, insane, and all that sort of thing. All this we agree with them, word for word. Not a shadow of doubt about the fact of their insanity! They were most unquestionably insane—fanatics—monomaniacs. And so are all the Abolitionists throughout the length and breadth of the land. Abolitionism itself is the development of a badly balanced mind, that has pored too long over an impracticable scheme, that requires a preponderance of the vicious propensities of the heart to execute. A man can never be a full fledged abolitionist until he gets his own consent to enter in a conspiracy against the peace, harmony, and welfare of the country, and to break the laws of God and man as a supposed duty. All abolitionists are insane on that point. And there are thousands of them throughout the country, who would rejoice to see the project attempted by Brown carried out, if it could be done without endangering their necks! Fear only of meeting Ossawattomie Brown's fate keeps these unfortunate deluded people from entering into an open conspiracy against the government. The man who would decoy the negro from home, aid and abet his escape on the Underground Railroad, and assist in the support while thus from home, would, were he not a coward, tear off the veil of secresy and do as Brown and Cooke have done—raise the standard of rebellion in the very heart of slavery; draw the sword, and spill the blood of the innocent to avenge the supposed evil. The man who appropriates another's horse to his own use—does it stealthily, because he fears the consequences; otherwise he would commit the act in open daylight. So with the man stealer, he seeks darkness because his deeds are evil and he fears the consequences.

Seward and Giddings, Garrison, Lincoln, Fred Douglass are, before God, to blame for the crime of poor, insane Kansas Brown! They entertain and promulgate the doctrine; they stay at home, write, make speeches and manufacture a public sentiment, to carry out which poor, insane Brown and his sons die. They do more than write and make speeches—they furnish material aid. They forward money and munitions of destruction to Brown, expressly to go into the hands of the uprising negro mob to murder their own masters with; and write letters of sympathy and encouragement. They are a thousand fold more to blame than that fool Brown and his ill-fated sons. But even they—these leaders are not so much to blame in all this as another class of society, who act behind the screen. We mean the Ministers of the Gospel, and the christian communities of the North who have indirectly gotten this state of things up.

Instead of attending to their own legitimate duties, they have stepped aside with puritanical obtrusiveness, to force the South to embrace their own views of moral duty. They have closed the record of holiness, become silent about sins at home and all gone off in a crusade against the sins of a distant people.

This Harper's Ferry affair, as far as their usefulness is concerned will dumb-strike a thousand pulpits in the North!—What, we ask, is the legitimate tendency of all these abolition demonstrations? Inflamatory speech, vindictive resolutions, rabid lectures? These emigrant aid societies? What did their founders intend to do? What object had Beecher, and Cheever, and Douglas, and all those frenzied, hot brained, crazied crowds in view, when they raised such a raid towards Kansas? Follow that demonstration into Kansas and you there see what they intend to do.—Violence, rapine, and murder marked the progress of that fanatic crusade throughout the distracted Territory. And those sharpe's rifles were not sanctified by the benediction of such an Apostle as Beecher to remain idle. O, no! When no longer needed in bleeding Kansas they were shipped around by way of Connecticut, and down South, and lodged in an underground depot, to be put into the hands of rebellious negroes to murder their masters with.

We reiterate, that the Ministers of the Gospel and those christian societies of the North, who have abandoned the policy of christianity and entered into this grand aggressive demonstration against the rights of their Southern brethern, are, before God, and at the bar of an intelligent world, more to blame for this Harper's Ferry rebellion and blood than all other—even than insane Brown. Seward and Giddings, Chase, Garrison, Lincoln, Trumbull and other politicians, have not made this state of things. They find it in existence already and use it, as politicians, merely to subserve their own ends. They are only incidentally involved in the evil, just as they would be in Mormonism, or spirit rapping, if such could be made to promote their ends.

A Touching Anecdote.

Hon. A. H. Stephens, of Georgia, in a recent address at a meeting in Alexandria for the benefit of the orphan asylum and free schools of that city, related the anecdote:

'A poor little boy, in a cold night in June, with no home or roof to shelter his head, no parental or maternal guardian or guide to protect or direct him on his way, reached at nightfall the house of a rich planter, who took him in, fed, lodged, and sent him on his way with his blessing. These kind attentions cheered his heart, and inspired him with fresh courage to battle with the obstacle of life. Years rolled round; Providence led him on; he had reached the legal profession; his host had died; the cormorants that prey on the substance of man had formed a conspiracy to get from the widow her estates. She sent for the nearest council to commit her cause to him, and that council proved to be the orphan boy years before welcomed and entertained by her deceased husbond. The stimulus of a warm and tenacious gratiude was now added to the ordinary motives connected with the profession. He undertook her cause with a will not easy to be resisted; he gained it; the widow's estates were secured to her in perpetuity; and, Mr. Stephens added, with an emphasis of emotion that sent its electric thrill thoughout the house, 'that orphan boy stands before you.'

☞ Things at Harper's Ferry about as usual—much excitement, and a large number of troops.

Address of Mr. Sidney Webster.

I accept, my fellow-citizens, with emotions of gratitude and pride, the post which your partial kindness has assigned me.

We have assembled to select two persons from this Congressional District, who shall represent us in that assemblage of Democrats at Charleston, upon which is devolved the high duty, not only of selecting a candidate for the chief magistracy of the Republic, but in fact of determining who shall hold the executive authority of the United States for the next Presidential term. Such has come to be the nature of the business to be performed by Delegates to a National Democratic Convention. They are, indeed but not in word, electors of Presidents.

We are proud to claim association and membership to-day with that Democratic party which has wielded the power—fixed the condition and inspired the action—of the United States during so large a portion of their national history. We rejoice to vindicate, here and now, the faith once delivered to those great and good men, apostles of Democracy, who in the early day were gifted with perception almost miraculous, of the true nature of the double government, which holds us together in one family of States, and which, capable of the greatest imperial power for foreign action, is yet susceptible of the highest perfection in the not less important though more limited sphere of State action. We glory in our devotion to all the compromises of the Constitution, which they, of that cherished epoch, gave us in charge to keep, and which in the progress of time has placed on our brow the name of the Great Republic — We congratulate ourselves that while as a party we have never failed to keep steadily in view the original compact, as the only exponent of the purposes for which the Union was made, we have with unabated energy, in the face of denunciation unceasing, rolled forward the wheel of American progress, added new stars to the national flag, increased the circle of our agricultural and mineral production, and given to nations, sinking in the valley and in the shadow of political death, an example of the priceless blessings of liberty regulated and protected by law.

Inspired by such memories in the past, such associations in the present, we can have no words of compromise for those who seek to resist our onward march, who arraign our patriotism, and even to affect to question our devotion to human liberty.

If we are told, to-day, that we are in alliance with the South, to control and carry on the Government of the United States, we answer that we do but follow the example of the revolutionary fathers of New England, who hastened to unite themselves with Southern men to achieve independence, frame the Constitution, and establish it. [Applause] If we are told that, by our party association and conduct, we countenance and uphold slavery, we answer that property in slaves is countenanced and upheld by the Constitution [Applause] If we are told that when commanded by law we do not refuse to surrender fugitives from service, we answer that we regret there is either a slave to flee or a master to pursue, but it is written in the bond that the slave 'shall be delivered up,' and the supreme tribunal of the land, speaking not the higher but the highest law, has pronounced the mode and manner laid down in the statute book to be constitutional and thus conclusive upon us. If we are told by some man more wise, more sensible, than are the professed philanthropists of the hour, who avow their willingness to trample on the Constitution to-day, and the Bible to-morrow, to effect a revolutionary change in the condition of the black laborers of the South,—some man who denies that he would interfere with slavery in the States where it exists, who feels no moral responsibility for it there, who avows his obedience to the clause of the Constitution in relation to fugitives from service and labor, who ridicules the idea of negro emancipation in the South.—if we are told, I say, by such a man, that we seek to introduce slavery into the new possessions of the United States, we deny the charge, and reply that we only seek to extend over those territorial acquisitions that Constitution under which the new dominion was obtained. (Applause.) If we are told that by our votes in Congress we repealed the Missouri restriction, and so opened up the Territory of Kansas to slave labor, we answer that the act of Congress did but announce what the Supreme Court had before decided, which was that any act of Congress which, like the Missouri restriction, prescribed in advance the particular institutions to be formed on any public territory, was unconstitutional, and so a nullity, because it restricted the free action of new States formed out of these territories, and prevented their rising to a condition of coequality with old States. If we are told that we believe the Constitution, of its own vigor, establishes slavery in a new Territory, we deny that such is our belief, and I reply that the sacred instrument recognizes the right of each one of the joint owners of the public domain to go there, carrying with him whatever is property by the laws of the United States or of the State from which he emigrates, and if he go from a slave labor State, and carry property in a slave, the Constitution permits the holding such property there till the people of the Territory, clothed in the garments of sovereignty, are admitted to be a State, and decide the question for themselves. If we are told that such opinions, when acted upon, permit slaveholders to fasten upon a virgin soil, and fix upon it the hand of slave labor not easily to be shaken off, we reply that deplore the fact as we may, yet Congress permits it, the Supreme Court permits it, more than all and above all the Constitution permits it.— If we are told that this is opposition to free labor, then we say that Washington and Franklin, Madison and Hamilton, Robert Morris and Rufus King, John Langdon and Roger Sherman, made a Constitution, and the people of thirteen States adopted a Constitution in opposition to free labor.— If we are told, in the cant phrase of the day, that 'the slave oligarchy' has been paramount in the United States for seventy years, dictating and controlling our federal policy, and that we are aiding to perpetuate the rule of that 'oligarchy,' we answer that we have no method of judging of the future but by the past, and looking to the past, to the amazing success and prosperity, material, moral, and intellectual, which has attended the republic since it first started on the highway of nations, we see nothing to induce us to condemn the policy which has so promoted the common good, uplifted the down trodden, and showered upon all men, white and black, multiplied and multiplying blessings. If we are told that we seek to re-open the African slave trade, we fling back the false and dishonoring charge, and say to whoever makes it, that he knows it to be no more true than would be the charge that the men of New England are seeking to employ their ships in the disgraceful traffic. If we are pressed with the common phrases of philanthrophy, about the lot of the bondman, we tell them that, though we may deplore it as much as they, but that with it all, we have a country to keep, a nation to love, a constitution to be proud of, to maintain, to uphold against all enemies. [Great applause.] We tell them that we intend to avoid the besetting sin of dwelling on those things trifling and transient, and losing sight of those large and lasting. We tell them that, so long as the Constitution endures there shall be with us true loyalty to all its requirements; that 'sink or swim, survive or perish,' as a party, we are for this Constitution, expounded by the high tribunal into whose charge alone our fathers gave its exposition; that we are for this Constitution, which makes the only Union possible to have, the only Union possible to preserve. [Cheers] We may regret that there is a slave on earth, as we regret the necessity of any restraints upon the liberty of the idle and vicious; but yet we insist that the advantages, the blessings, unspeakable glories of this constitutional Union of States outweigh a million times all the harm which has or ever can come from the relation of the white race to the black, which exists in the Southern States.

We will see to it that the alien who comes to our shores has all the rights and privileges held out by public law, which invited him here, and induced him to contribute to the bone, and sinew, and wealth, of the United States. We will secure to every sect and creed liberty to worship God in their own way, and, in that sense, will give protection to Protestant and Catholic alike, not because they are Catholics or Protestants, but because they are citizens. We will not violate their equality in the State by refusing to respect their religion. [Applause]

My fellow Democrats, we have before us in 1860 a political canvass which will appeal to all the higher and better emotions of our public life. The question to be decided is, shall we inaugurate, in these United States, a geographical party, and elect a geographical President? That is the question before which all other questions dwarf, and in the settlement of which patriotic men will have enough to grapple with, without quarreling over abstractions, fit enough for a student in his library, fit enough for philosophers by the sounding sea, fit enough, perhaps, for the moot courts of yonder law school, but utterly unfit for men who have to take part in the serious practical business of carrying on the government of this Republic.

The people are with us the source of power, and have been, from the dawn of colonial life to this hour. Popular supremacy has penetrated and colored our whole public law and life; and yet the question of the right of a citizen to take certain property to a Territory, and hold it there, is a constitutional question to be decided by the Supreme Court, and it alone. [Applause.]

While for the common enemy we have nothing but defiance, shall we not among ourselves and for ourselves, forego the sweetness of revenge, be lifted above the small memories of personal quarrels, and so, by tolerance and reconciliation, put out from among us the fires of animosity? Would not that be solid glory? Would not that be practical illustration of the motto on our banners—'Everything for the cause, nothing for men?'

I can express, in conclusion, no better hope for this Convention than that its deliberations may all contribute to such a result. [Applause.]

Storming of the Bastion.

In one of the concluding chapters of Charles Reade's great story, 'White Lies' occurs the following description of an attack by the French upon the Bastion St. Andre, during the wars of Napolean. The picture of the event has no superior in the language for graphic description and fearful interest:

'This won't do, comrade, I must go, I shall attack from your position. So I shall go down the line and bring men up. Meantime pick up my detachment. Give me a good spice of veterans. I shall get one word with you before we get out. God bless you!'

'God bless you, Raynal!'

The moment Raynal was gone, Camille beckoned a lieutenent to him and ordered half the brigade to form a strong column on both sides of Death's Alley.

His eye fell upon private Dard.

'Come here,' said he.

Dard came and saluted.

'Have you any one at Beaurepaire who would be sorry if you were killed?'

'Yes, Colonel, Jacintha, that used to make your broth, Colonel'

'Take this line to Col. Raynal. You will find him with the 12th brigade.'

He wrote a few lines in pencil, folded them, and Dard went off with them, little dreaming that the colonel of his brigade was taking the trouble to save his life because he came from Beaurepaire.

Colonel Dujardin then went into his tent and closed the aperture, and took the good book the priest had given him, and prayed humbly, and forgave all the world.

Then he sat down, his head in his hands, and thought of his child, and how hard it was to die and never see him. One sad sob at this—one only.

Then he lighted a candle, sealed up his orders of valor, and wrote a line begging that they might be sent to his sister. He also sealed up his purse and left a memorandum that the contents might be given to disabled soldiers of his brigade upon their being invalided.

Then he took out Josephine's letter.

'Poor coward,' he said, 'let me not be kind See, I burn your letter, lest it should be found, and disturb the peace you prize so highly. I, too, shall soon be at peace, thank God!' He lighted it and droped it on the ground; it burned slowly away.— He eyed it dispairingly. 'Ay. you perish, last record of an unhappy love; and as you pass away; so I am going—my soul to my Creator, my body to dust—ay, poor letter, even so passes away my life, wasted by generals not fit to command a corporal's guard—my hope of glory and my dreams of love—it all ends to day, at nine-and-twenty.'

He put his handkerchief to his eyes—Josephine had given it to him. He cried a little, not at dying, but at seeing his life thrown away.

When he had done crying he put his white handkerchief in his bosom, and the whole man was transformed beyond the power of language to express. Power does not change more when it catches fire. He rose that moment and went like a flash of lightening out of the tent. The next he came down like a falcon between the lines of the strong colums in Death's Alley.

'Attention!' cried the sergent, 'the Colonel!'

There was a dead silence, for the bare sight of that erect and inspired figure made the men's bosoms thrill with the certainty of great deeds to come; the light of battle was in his eye. No longer the moody colonel, but a thunderbolt of war, red hot and waiting to be launched.

'Officers, sergents, and soldiers, a word with you.'

La Croix—'Attention.'

'Do you know what passed here five minutes ago?'

'The attack of the bastion was settled,' cried a captain.

'No.'

'A colonel from Egypt!'

A groan from the men.

'With detachment from other brigades'

'Ah!' an angry roar.

Colonel Dujardin walked quietly down between the two lines, looking with his fiery eye into the men's eyes on the right. Then he came back on the other side, and as he went he lighted those men's eyes with his own. It was a torch passing along a line of gas-lights The work to us,' he cried, in a voice like a clarion, (it fired the hearts as his eye had fired the eyes) 'the triumph to strangers! Our fatigues and our losses have not gained the brigade the honor of going out at those fellows that have killed so many of our conrades'

A fierce groan from the men.

'What! shall the colors of another brigade and not ours fly from that bastion this afternoon?'

'No! no!' in a roar of thunder.

'Ay! you are of my mind. Attention! the attack is fixed for 5 o'clock. Suppose you and I were to carry the bastion ten minutes before the colonel from Egypt can bring his men upon the ground?'

A fierce roar of joy and laughter—the stranger laughter of veterans and born invincibles.

'That was a question I put to your hearts—your answer?'

The answer was a yell of exhausting assent. but it was half drowned by another response, and thunder of the impatient drums, and the rattle of fixing bayonets.

The Colonel told off a party to the battery.

'Level the guns at the top ties. Fire at my signal, and keep firing over our heads till you see the colors on the place.'

He then darted to the head of the column, which instantly formed behind him in the centre of Death's Alley.

'The colors! No hand but mine shall hold them to-day'

There instantly brought to him, his left hand shook them free in the afternoon sun.

A deep murmur of joy from the old hands at the now unwonted sight. Out flashed the sword like steel lightning. He waved it towards the battery.

Bang! bang! bang! bang! went the cannon, and the smoke rolled over the trenches. At the same moment up went the colors waving, and the Colonel's clarion voice pealed high above all.

'Twenty-fourth demi brigade—forward!'

They went so swiftly out of the trenches that they were not seen through their own smoke until they had run some sixty yards. No sooner were they seen coming on like devils than two thousand muskets were leveled at them from all the Prussian line. It was not a rattle of small arms—it was a crash, and the men fell fast, but a moment they were seen to spread out like a fan—and when the fan closed again it half encircled the bastion. It was a French attack. Part swarmed on in front like bees, part swept round the glacis and flanked it. They were seen to fall in numbers, shot down from the embraces. But the living took the place of the dead, and the fight raged evenly there. Where are the colors? Towards the rear. There the colonel and a hundred men are fighting hand to hand with the Prussians, who have charged out at the back doors of the bastion. Success there, and the bastion must fall— both sides know this.

All in a moment the colors disappeared. There was a groan from the French line. No! there they were again, and close under the bastion.

And now in front the attack was so hot that often the Prussian gunners were seen to jump down, driven from their posts; and the next moment a fierce hurrah from the rear told that the French had won some great advantage there. The fire slackening told a similiar tale, and presently down came the Prussian flagstaff. That might be accident. A few moments of thirsting expectation, and up went the colors of the 24th brigade upon the Bastion St. Andre.

The whole French army raised a shout that rent the sky, and their cannon began to play on the Prussian lines and between the bastion and the nearest fort to prevent a recapture.

Then shot from the earth a cubic acre of fire where last the bastion was seen; it carried up a heavy mountain of red and black smoke, that looked solid as marble. There was a heavy, sullen, tremulous explosion, that snuffed out the sound of the cannon, and paralized the French and Prussian gunner's hands, and checked the very beating of their hearts. Thirty thousand pounds of gunpowder were in that awful explosion

War itself held its breath, and both armies, like peaceful spectators, gazed wonder-struck, terror-struck. Great hell seemed to have burst through the earth's crust, and to be rushing at Heaven. Hughstones, cannon, corpes, and limbs of soldiers were seen driven or falling through the smoke. Some of these last came quite clear of the ruins, aye, into the French and Prussian lines, that even the veterans put their hands to their eyes. Raynal felt something spatter on him from the sky. It was blood—a comrade's perhaps. Oh! war! war!

The smoke cleared Where a moment before the great bastion stood and fought was a monstrous pile of blackened, bloody stones and timbers, with dismounted cannon sticking up here and there.

And rent and crushed to atoms beneath the smoking mass lay the relics of the gallant brigade and their victorious colors.

THE WAR BETWEEN SPAIN AND MOROCCO—PANIC AND FRIGHT OF MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN.—The accounts from Morocco, in regard to the forthcoming invasion of that country by the armies of Spain, and the rally of the wild tribes of the Moorish Kingdom to the defense of their country, show that there was quite a panic in Morocco. A letter from Tangier, of the 21st ult., says:

The people of the city were flying in all directions from the dread of the Kabyle tribes that entered. The Governor was indefatigable in using his greatest efforts to prevent pillage. Some of the wretches caught in the act of using violence were severely punished by order of the Minister Sidi Mahomed el Katib. The various European representatives had still their flags hoisted over the consular houses.— The most respectable Moors of the city had succeeded in moving the greater portion of their goods into the interior for safety.

On the evening of the 20th a Spanish Government steamer left for Tarifa conveying a number of Jewish familes, with their baggage. Further arrivals of the fugitives from Tangier at Gibraltar had taken place. Her Majesty's steam gun-boat Lapwing brought over the wife of Mr. Brown' the American Consul, and two merchants.

For want of house accommodation the Governor of Gibraltar garrison had directed the issue of fifty tents for military store department for the use of the poorer classes of refugees who had not succeeded in finding lodging in town. The Jewish population of the city were exerting themselves in behalf of their Tangier brethren, by supplying the necessities of life to those most in need. Many have left Tangier without seeking for anything else but to save their persons, such is the fear that reigns in this desolated city. When it became known that her Majesty's steam sloop Scylla was about to start for Gibraltar, nearly three hundred men, women and children rushed to the water's edge, and all were, through the cortesy of Captain Lambert, his officers and men, taken on board by men-of-war-boats.

The Kadyle tribes, to the number of fifty thousand, are expected from the interior within three days. The Government will provide them with ammunition should an attack on Tangier be meditated.

AYER'S
Cathartic Pills,
(SUGAR COATED,)
ARE MADE TO
CLEANSE THE BLOOD AND CURE THE SICK.
Invalids, Fathers, Mothers, Physicians, Philanthropists, read their Effects, and judge of their Virtues.
FOR THE CURE OF

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.

PITTSBURG, PA., May 1, 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once. If they will cure others as they do me, the fact is worth knowing.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PREBLE.
Clerk of Steamer Clarion.

Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, D. C., 7 Feb., 1856.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them.

Fraternally yours, ALONZO BALL, M. D.,
Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Relax, and Worms.

POST OFFICE, HARTLAND, LIV. CO., MICH., Nov. 15, 1855.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the perfection of medicine. They have done my wife more good than I can tell you. She had been sick and pining away for months. Went off to be doctored at great expense, but got no better. She then commenced taking your Pills, which soon cured her, by expelling large quantities of worms (dead) from her body. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dysentery. One of our neighbors had it bad, and my wife cured him with two doses of your Pills, while others around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctor bills, and lost much time, without being cured entirely even then. Such a medicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here.

GEO. J. GRIFFIN, Postmaster.

Indigestion and Impurity of the Blood

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, WYOMING CO., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1855.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Erysipelas, Scrofula, King's Evil, Tetter, Tumors, and Salt Rheum.

From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1856.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother had been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her. ASA MORGRIDGE.

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church.

PULASKI HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 6, 1856.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until, by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

SENATE CHAMBER, BATON ROUGE, LA., 5 Dec., 1855.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured by your Pills of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

For Dropsy, Plethora, or kindred Complaints, requiring an active purge, they are an excellent remedy.

For Costiveness or Constipation, and as a Dinner Pill, they are agreeable and effectual.

Fits, Suppression, Paralysis, Inflammation, and even Deafness, and Partial Blindness, have been cured by the alterative action of these Pills.

Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.

We need not speak to the public of its virtues. Throughout every town, and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent without some personal experience of its effects; and fewer yet the communities any where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the subtle and dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs. While it is the most powerful antidote yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for infants and young persons. Parents should have it in store against the insidious enemy that steals upon them unprepared. We have abundant grounds to believe the Cherry Pectoral saves more lives by the consumptions it prevents than those it cures. Keep it by you, and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neglect them until no human skill can master the inexorable canker that, fastened on the vitals, eats your life away. All know the dreadful fatality of lung disorders, and as they know too the virtues of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them it is still made the best it can be. We spare no cost, no care, no toil to produce it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on it the best agent which our skill can furnish for their cure.

WAVERLY NOVELS.

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS, of Philadelphia, Pa., have surpassed themselves by commencing, in weekly issues, the re-publication of Sir Walter Scott's novels, at the low cost of TWENTY-FIVE CENTS a number, or FIVE DOLLARS for the complete set, comprising thirty-two stories. We are very glad to see so cheap an edition of novels so much superior in their genius to the watery trash that is written, and read, we suppose, by foolish people now-a-days. Better read them to the fiftieth time, than to waste time and spoil good taste over the blood and thunder of yellow-covered sensation novels. The Petersons' have thus far issued ten numbers, containing each a novel complete, viz, Old Mortality, Woodstock, Waverley, Ivanhoe, Rob Roy, Quentin Durward, Guy Mannering, Kenilworth, The Abbot and The Antiquary; and we would advise all our readers to send to the Messrs. Petersons for a set of these popular and undying works of the great novelist. They are now issued at the rate of one a week, and the whole twenty-six volumes can be had free of postage, by sending five dollars to the publishers. All persons now have an opportunity here to secure his works which has never before been offered, and which may never occur again. The present chance should be taken advantage of by all.

A VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE IN NORFOLK CO., VA.

IT lies on the Dismal Swamp Canal, about 7 miles from Deep Creek and 14 from Norfolk, and contains from 1200 to 1500 acres, about 150 to 200 of which are now in arable order, the balance in original forest.

The soil is adapted to the production of Indian corn and other crops usually cultivated in that section. About 5 or 600 acres of the tract would make as fine a farm as any in Eastern Virginia; adjoining lands of similar quality unimproved, have produced from 14 to 15 barrels of corn per acre, and the wood and timber on the land would pay every expense of clearing, when it would be worth $50 per acre.

It presents, also, great facilities for carrying on the wood business. Immense quantities of the best quality could be sold at paying prices at Norfolk or on the Canal bank, along which the land stretches for several miles. The facilities of water carriage would also render the trucking business profitable.

There is a large Juniper swamp on the tract, valuable for its rail and shingle timber.

The pasturage and range for Stock is unsurpassed. A free School is within one mile of the dwelling Persons desirous of purchasing are referred to Messrs. George T Wallace and John West, who live near the place, and to Mr. Benjamin T. Tatem, near Norfolk, who will take pleasure in showing the land.

For further information and terms, which will be liberal, apply to
